

The Puppy Who Wanted to Fly by Joan Arlin Hibbs

Everybody knows that puppies can't fly -- everybody except Puddy Wuddy! As a tiny puppy, Puddy dreams about flying. His dream is so real; he is convinced that he can learn to fly. He imitates the birds on his farm. He runs, leaps, flaps his ears and paddles his feet but he always falls, kerplop! His brothers and sisters make fun of him, but he keeps practicing. His farm animal friends decide to help him. Puddy shows that with hard work and teamwork, he can accomplish his dreams. Full color picture book for read to me and early readers.

Author Bio - Joan Arlin Hibbs author /illustrator and former mental health therapist. She is an inspirational public speaker and will visit schools and libraries. She currently lives on a horse farm outside of Portland, Oregon with her husband, Robert. Joan Hibbs writes and illustrates children's' books adult non-fiction books and is preparing three adult mysteries for publication in 2012.

The Puppy Who Wanted to Fly by Joan Arlin Hibbs

- Trade Paperback: 35 pages Suggested Retail price: $12.99
- Available for purchase at Amazon.com, CreateSpace. com, E-books, BookSurge.com
- All Color Picture Book Juvenile Fiction - early reader - 3-8 years
- Publisher: CreateSpace/BookSurge Publishing, Amazon.com, E-books (January 2010)
- Language: English
- ISBN-10: 1-4392-6740-5 EAN-13: 9781439267400
- Product Dimensions: 8 X10 inches
- Shipping Weight: Average Customer Review: 5.0 out of 5 stars
- Author website: <http://www.joanarlinhibbs.com> -

